DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 as being unpatentable over Mitani et al. (U.S. Patent 5,544,529) in view of Barth (U.S. Patent 4,655,610).

Mitani et al. teaches the invention claimed as follows the correction circuit (33), the package (30), the subpackage (32) enclosing the correction circuit having on the surface a pad connected to the correction circuit (Column 5, Lines 24-47), the intake tube (1), the output terminals (29,39), and the correction circuit/detector are enclosed by the package after the pad and the output terminal are connected by a metal wire (Figure 4). However he does not explicitly disclose the substrate, the diaphragm formed on the substrate, the silicon oxide film, the polysilicon film, the thickness of the polysilicon film, and the distance of the covered part from the etchant hole.

Barth discloses the substrate (42), the diaphragm formed on the substrate (Abstract), the silicon oxide film (46), and the polysilicon film (48).

With respect to the thickness and the distance, Barth at least teaches some particular thickness and distance. In this case, to provide whatever specific thickness and distance desired including that as claimed in Barth for the purpose of avoiding deformation. It has been held that where general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to modify the invention taught by Mitani et al. to include the diaphragm, the silicon oxide film (46), and the polysilicon film (48) as taught by for Barth, as well as the thickness and distance, for the purpose of improving the semiconductor transducer and the diaphragm structure.
